PRESENTATIONAL WRITING EXAMPLES

WRITING AND PRODUCING PRESENTATIONAL WRITING (PW) TASKS

Creating a Presentational Writing task starts with knowing several key things: the level of writing (Novice, Intermediate, Advanced), the topic and the kind of passage you want the students to write (narrative, informative, opinion piece, instructions, etc.). You will also need to decide if you want the writing prompt in the students' native language or the target language they are learning. (There are valid arguments for both approaches.)

In the prompt box, you will include instructions and prompt(s) you write. The student will have a text box on the same page to write the answer(s). There is no text limit for the prompt box or the text box for the student's response. You can create multiple prompt boxes for one topic.

On the next page, you will find some sample writing prompts that are representative of the language that the teacher might write, and then assign to students. Note that each is accompanied by the various attributes that you will be asked to provide as you create content.
Sample 1

Sample 5

Name: Social Life
Description: Some students at your school are writing an article about kids' social life and some of the difficulties. They've asked all the students to contribute to the article.

Language: English
Level: Advanced
Topic: Social Life
Standard: Communications and Cultures
Gender: NA
Keywords: social life, friends

Instructions: Some students at your school are writing an article about kids' social life and some of the difficulties. They've asked all the students to contribute to the article. Answer each question with lots of information and details. Be as complete as possible.

Prompt 1
We've all experienced a time when we did not fit in, a time when we felt different than others or a time when we were left out. Think about a time this happened to you. What happened? Explain everything that happened from beginning to end. Include lots of details and description. You should write a minimum of one paragraph.

Prompt 2
Tell me your thoughts on making friends. How do you think people make friends? How do you get close to friends, those kinds of friends we trust completely with whom we share our secrets, fears and dreams? How do people lose friends and keep friends? Include lots of details. You should write a minimum of one paragraph.

Prompt 3
Pretend that a friend, Monica, has written you an email about a personal problem. She needs someone to listen and she's asking for help. Monica explains to you that her best friend did not invite her to her birthday party. Monica's feelings are hurt, and she doesn't know what to do. Reply to Monica's email to give her comfort and advice.
